

Art Bobrowitz

Compass Rose Consulting Inc.

“We bring innovative and professional services to the workplace to inspire and support the human spirit”

Art Bobrowitz has been a passionate student of people and their relationship to quality of life and work issues for more than thirty five years. Art spent over twenty-three years with the Oregon State Police. For nineteen of those years, his primary duties were public safety training, media relations, and public speaking. His last eight years were spent as a supervisor and teaching at the Oregon Public Safety Academy at Western Oregon University.

Since then, Art has used his thirty-plus years of management research and experience to launch Compass Rose Consulting Inc., a management and productivity-consulting group. He is the author of Each Human Spirit – the Transformation of the American Workplace and his newest manuscript, The Harmony of Science and Soul: Finding Meaning in the 21st Century Workplace. He is in high demand as a speaker and trainer and consults with a wide variety of corporations and agencies on productivity, customer satisfaction, communication, and other topics.

Art lives with his wife, Roseann, in Keizer, Oregon. He holds a commercial pilot certificate and is active in community issues.

Professional Skills:

- Published author and nationally recognized public speaker
- Business/Management Consultant - Professional Mentor, Trainer and Facilitator
- Mentor, Willamette University, Atkinson Graduate School of Management
- Background in commercial broadcasting and media

Community Activities:

- Graduate - FBI Citizens Leadership Academy